East Stroudsburg Armory To Be Rehabilitated

Bids To Open On August 8

COMPLETE rehabilitation of the Pennsylvania National Guard Armory on Washington St., East Stroudsburg, is planned by the Department of Property and Supplies, officials disclosed yesterday.

Headquarters of the 109th Infantry Regiment, of which the local Company G is a part, revealed in Scranton that the project calls for extensive remodeling and restoration of the flood-damaged building.

The armory suffered an estimated $65,000 loss in last August's high water. The basement, main floor and grounds surrounding the building all suffered heavy damage.

Bids

In calling for bids on the project, the state announced that three different contracts will be awarded. They will be general construction, heating and plumbing, and wiring. The bids will be opened in Harrisburg at 1:30 p.m. Aug. 8.

Capt. Gerald E. Shanley Jr., former commander of Company G and at present planning and training officer for the Second Battalion, is chairman of the local Armory Board. He conferred with Gen. Henry Fluck, commander of the 28th Division, and 109th Regiment officers in planning the rehabilitation work.

Other members of the board are Lt. Richard L. Rugg, Company G commander; Dr. Charles H. Rushmore, M. F. Crowe, Dr. Charles Flagger, William Sheeley and Jansen Shaw.

Capt. Shanley said considerable construction work will be done in the armory basement. Walls damaged by the flood will be replaced by new ones of concrete block construction. The 22-caliber firing range will undergo repairs, a classroom will be added and there will be two locker rooms instead of one as formerly. Plans also call for a recreation room to be built later.

Main Floor

On the main floor, weapons storage rooms with vault doors will be built on either side of the entrance and the drill floor will be replaced by a new hardwood floor.

Plans call for converting the balcony area into a series of six small rooms for administrative offices. New electrical wiring throughout, new plumbing and a new equipment also are provided. The kitchen will be remodeled and new equipment placed there.

Capt. Shanley said a cyclone fence will be erected around the armory grounds and provisions made for keeping the gates locked to permit parking of Company G vehicles. Some landscaping work in also planned.

General Motors Reports Decline In Business

NEW YORK, July 25 (AP)—General Motors Corp., the world's biggest auto maker, today reported a 644-million-dollar decline in its business for the first six months of 1956, compared to a year ago. Profits were down 157 millions.

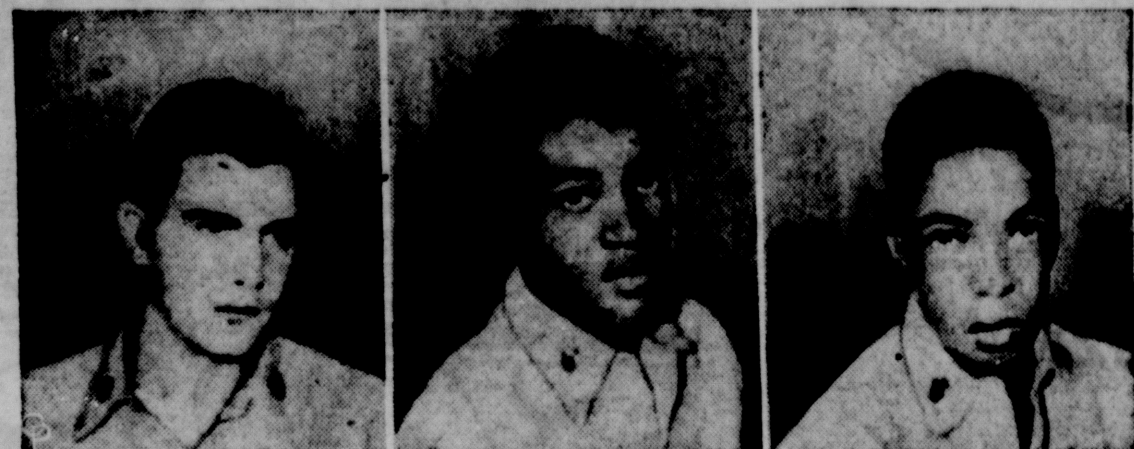

For the six months ended June 30, the giant company earned $503,471,823, or $1.80 a share. This compared with $680,961,942 or $2.41 a share in the first half of 1955.

Lagging Sales

GM attributed the dip to lagging sales of new cars during the peak spring selling season. Auto sales from the company's U. S. plants in the second quarter were down a whopping 27 per cent from the peak levels of a year ago.

"Until I got this hose in the Want Ads—it only rained when I washed my car."

Drama Grips Courtroom During Trial Of McKeon

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C., July 25 (AP)—The possibility S/Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon was drunk when he marched his recruits into Ribbon Creek was raised at his court-martial today for the first time. Six young Marines drowned on the April 8 death march.

The startling prosecution evidence, not hitherto revealed, brought defense attorney Emile Zola Berman to his feet, shouting objections. He argued loud and hard, his face purple with anger. But in the end the evidence — a blood test for intoxication — went into the record, but without evaluation. "The offense of intoxication creates prejudice," Berman roared. "It is our contention of overwhelming prejudice by this evidence to the rights of this defendant."

Vital

"I regard this as very, very vital."

It was 8 p.m. April 8 that McKeon marched recruit Platoon 71 in the dark into Ribbon Creek. He is undergoing court-martial for the death of the six drowned boys.

In another moment of high drama in this biggest court day thus far, McKeon's own account of the death march was read into the record for the first time. He made it in a statement April 9 to a Marine legal investigator.

Statement

McKeon, in the statement, told of his difficulties with undisciplined members of Platoon 71. He continued:

"About 1300 (1 p.m.) I got the idea to take them out into the swamps that night, thinking I could teach them some discipline. All during the afternoon I had some drinks from a bottle. I think three or four drinks.

"Three-fourths of the platoon were squared away but the rest were foul balls."

Bulletin

BOSTON, July 25 (AP)—The luxury liners Andrea Doria and the Stockholm collided tonight off Nantucket Island. The Coast Guard said passengers on the 29,000-ton Andrea Doria were abandoning ship.

There were no immediate reports of casualties.

Jet Plane Crashes Into Building

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 25 (AP)—An Air Force jet training plane smashed into a combination grocery store and apartment building tonight, setting the structure afire. No one was reported killed.

The two crewmen bailed out of the plane and escaped with minor injuries.

Only one of the 12 persons who lived in the four apartments was reported in the building when the plane hit, firemen said. She was Mrs. Silvester Buckum and she suffered only shock.

Rubble

The two-story brick building was reduced to a pile of rubble. Firemen said flames shot high into the air after the plane made a direct hit in the center of the building.

Mrs. Allen Shottzberger, 20, and her 2-year-old daughter, Audie, were just about to enter the structure when the plane came down. Both were hospitalized for extreme shock. Several other persons in the vicinity also suffered from shock.

Lt. Welling Pulford of the New Castle Fire Department identified the airplane's crewmen as Lt. W. K. Ryan and Lt. G. E. McCleod.

Girl Killed In Wayne County

SCRANTON, Pa., July 25 (AP)—A 16-year-old Narrowsburg, N. Y., girl was killed instantly and her companion, Gunther Jensen, 22, Atco, Wayne County, Pa., was injured seriously shortly before last midnight when their automobile left the highway near Beach Lake and crashed into a tree.

State police identified the dead girl as Bernice Roberts, who suffered a broken neck and other injuries. Jensen was removed to Wayne Memorial Hospital, Honesdale, badly injured about the head and body.

Cain Quits Board

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—The White House announced today that Harry P. Cain, crusading critic of the administration's employee security program, had resigned from the Subversive Activities Control Board.

Conferees Split Foreign Aid Funds

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—Senate-House conferees, agreeing to split the difference on foreign aid funds, today approved an appropriation of $3,766,570,000 for this year's program.

They also accepted the Senate's ban on the use of any of the money for military aid of Communist Yugoslavia.

The compromise figure on the appropriation for fiscal 1957 is $344,350,000 less than the Senate voted yesterday and $341,120,000 more than the House approved July 11—almost an even split.

It is also about one billion dollars less than President Eisenhower requested to carry on his mutual security program through the 12 months beginning July 1.

Agreement

But Eisenhower had agreed to settle for something in the neighborhood of four billion. Vice President Nixon reported after a White House conference this morning the President was "very pleased" with the way the Senate had held the line of foreign aid.

Nixon said the President also commended leaders of both parties in Congress for an "outstanding legislative performance."

Eisenhower had asked for a free hand to deal with Yugoslavia, which has been moving closer to Soviet Russia lately, but Nixon said the ban voted by the Senate was not discussed today.

The Senate's Republican leader, Sen. Knowland of California, led the fight to eliminate Yugoslavia from the new military aid program. His amendment would deny Marshal Tito's government economic aid but would deprive it of between 25 and 30 million dollars for weapons.

The conference agreement now goes to the House for approval. If it is okayed there it will move on to the Senate and then to Eisenhower's desk.

Cities Approve 'Shortway'

HAZLETON, Pa., July 25 (AP)—Sixty-nine representatives from a number of eastern Pennsylvania cities approved plans today for a limited access freeway to cut horizontally across Pennsylvania from Sharon to Stroudsburg.

Z. H. Confair of Williamsport, chairman of the Keystone Shortway Assn., stressed what he called the urgency of the proposed route. 3

Distance

He said it would cut the highway distance between Cleveland and New York by nearly 100 miles. "Vast areas of Pennsylvania now industrially dormant would become most attractive to industry, assured of faster New York City-Chicago connections," Confair said the highway would relieve predicted serious congestion in the Pennsylvania Turnpike in 10 years ahead.

Communities represented included Berwick, Bloomsburg, Mt. Carmel, Hazleton, West Hazleton, Freeland, Orangeville, Stroudsburg, Williamsport, Nanticoke, Tamaqua, Pittston, Ashland, Milton, Pottstown and Wilkes-Barre.

Institute Raps Automobile Firm

NEW YORK, July 25 (AP)—General Motors is an excellently managed, highly-efficient firm, but it is just plain "too big," the American Institute of Management said today.

"It is too big for the good of American businessmen who must deal with it and too big for the good of the country," said the institute.

ers met in New York Tuesday night and again yesterday to work out details of the reorganization.

"It looks as if the papers will be definitely signed Saturday morning," Maley said further. He said the signing will take place at the office of the trustee in bankruptcy in Macon, Ga.

"If everything goes well," he added, "we'll definitely open our show here around Aug. 15."

Stassen Reveals Nixon Low Man

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—Harold Stassen said today Vice President Nixon made the poorest showing of eight possible running mates for President Eisenhower in a recent confidential sampling of public sentiment.

Stassen, trying hard to revive his battered "dump Nixon" campaign, discussed an opinion poll which he helped sponsor during the past four weeks.

He told an impromptu news conference that the results support his contention that Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts is the strongest vice presidential choice the Republicans can make.

Stassen said, however, that he "certainly" would immediately scrap his attempt to boom Herter should Eisenhower publicly throw unqualified support to Nixon.

The President's special assistant for disarmament matters seemed undaunted by Herter's agreement to personally nominate Nixon at the Republican National Convention. Stassen implied that GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall had begun arranging this when he learned in advance of Stassen's plans.

Herter's move creates "some difficulty psychologically," Stassen said, but does not rule him out as a potential successor to Nixon.

Questions

Questioned about the opinion poll Stassen said it listed among the vice presidential possibilities Nixon, Herter, Stassen himself and five others. He declined to name the others but said the results probably will be made public by this weekend.

At a news conference yesterday, Stassen said he and four or five other Republicans had financed an opinion sampling. He refused to name the others.

"I am not a man of means," he said, so his part in underwriting the poll was limited to a "small contribution."

In publicly endorsing Herter at a surprise news conference Monday, Stassen disclaimed any vice presidential ambitions for himself. He said opposition to him from the party's "right wing" would make him something less than an ideal candidate.

Stassen today hinted he might soon get some encouragement from Eisenhower in his pro-Herter campaign. Eisenhower continued to keep silent on the matter but Herter said in Boston that Nixon "is clearly acceptable to the President."

At Stassen's later meeting with newsmen following a Cabinet-level White House session, Stassen said, "The whole party will go with the President when he says what he wishes to do."

He reported nothing was said before, during or after the session about his move to dump Nixon.

Some Republican leaders who favor Nixon have bitterly denounced Stassen and called for his resignation. But Stassen commented on this point:

"I'd say the reaction has been less extreme than I thought on the part of the right wing."

He said telegrams and letters which he has received are running heavily in favor of his action.

Contracts Set For Bridges

HARRISBURG, July 25 (AP)—The state Highways Department today awarded these contracts for emergency bridge repairs resulting from last year's floods:

Luzerne — Monroe counties — Bridge over Lehigh River near Stoddardsville along Route 115, J. Robert Bazley, Inc., Pottsville, $87,880.

Pike-Bridge over Sawkill Creek northwest of Milford along U. S. 6, Herbert R. Imbt, Inc., State College, $109,120.

Magazine Ends Career

NEW YORK, July 25 (AP)—The 80-year-old American Magazine, once a forerunner in the monthly publishing field—today ended its long and colorful career with its August issue.

The U. S. Bureau of Roads is currently studying the possibility of including the shortway route in the new federal highway program.

Meanwhile, more equipment was expected to arrive late last night or early this morning at the Stokes Mill location where a unit of the bankrupt circus has been stranded for sometime.

The equipment, including a light plant, will arrive here from Patton, Pa.

Maley further disclosed that he has one act already booked for the new show, and it's expected to arrive here Saturday after a TV performance in Philadelphia.

Provision Presented By House Vote

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—The Senate tonight accepted a House provision limiting construction of low rental public housing to 35,000 units, but voted to fight for its own version of the rest of the vast housing program.

The Senate had authorized a grand total of 500,000 low cost units in a bill passed May 24.

Tonight's action by a nonrecord rising vote will send the measure to a House-Senate conference committee to iron out the differences.

The legislation is one of the last major bills of the session, and failure to agree on it could upset plans for the adjournment of Congress by Saturday.

It might also wreck the chances of getting any housing legislation in 1956. For the last three years the House has voted against any new public housing authority.

On a voice vote today, however, it accepted the 35,000-a-year figure—which President Eisenhower also supports—in a compromise bill sponsored by Rep. Widnall (R-N.J.). Another measure calling for 60,000 housing units a year was rejected by a standing vote of 115-24.

Anchored

Meanwhile, the Senate bill was anchored in the House Banking Committee.

The Widnall bill would add three billion dollars to the Federal Housing Administration's general mortgage insurance authority and would provide special mortgage insurance aids for private housing to be built for the elderly.

It would also allow more liberal FHA insurance provisions for home repair and rehabilitation, rental housing, military housing and existing single family homes.

Slum clearance is provided for in the bill, as well as an expansion of the military housing program.

Railroads Seek Fare Increases

PHILADELPHIA, July 25 (AP)—A Pennsylvania Railroad spokesman admitted today that the world's largest railroad has discussed increases in first class passenger fares of from one-third to one half of the present basic first class fare.

Ralph C. Champlin, PRR vice president in charge of public relations, denied the move was designed to drive first class passengers away from the railroads and over to the airlines.

Reasoning

Champlin said the only object of increasing the rates is to "price ourselves back into some better relationship to costs." Champlin said the fare increases were discussed at a meeting July 18 of the association of authorized rate making officers of the railroads—the Trunk Line Traffic Managers Assn.

He said the Pennsylvania and the New York Central were in agreement among the 25 railroads at the meeting as to the need for "substantial" increases. He said no figure higher than 50 per cent was mentioned. There was no discussion, he said, of increasing the extra charge for a berth or roomette.

"We have no intention of driving the Pullman business off the railroad," Champlin said. "We're in the passenger business and are going to be as long as there is a railroad."

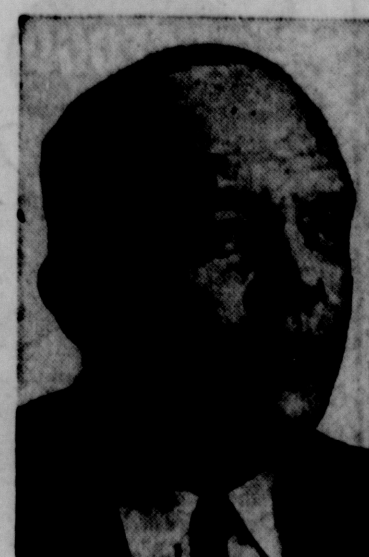

Earlier today, the PRR denied reports it was preparing to ask for price increases to try and dry up the Pullman service and switch the passengers over to the coach and airplane. A PRR statement said this was "not factual, misleading and an unjustified deduction."

House Passes Flood Bill

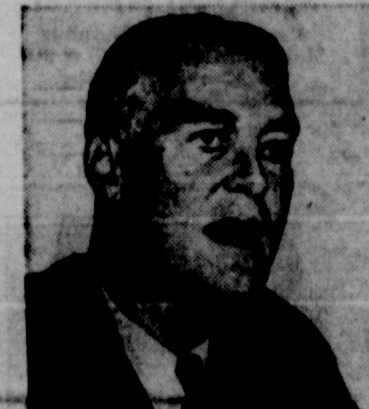

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—The House passed and returned to the Senate today a 7½ billion dollar federal flood insurance bill, including a government-guaranteed loan program.

Already passed by the Senate, the bill was altered substantially by the House.

Passage was by voice vote after rejection of a motion to send it back to the Banking Committee.

Barr Terms 'Ridiculous'

HARRISBURG, July 25 (AP)—Sen. Barr, Democratic state chairman, today called "ridiculous" a comment by Rep. Simpson (R-Pa.) that construction of the Sharon-Stroudsburg shortway would "bankrupt" the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

"This tired old charge of bankrupting the Commonwealth certainly isn't going to fool anybody, especially in an election year," Barr declared in a statement.

Last Weekend

Simpson said last weekend that construction of the proposed shortway would divert funds needed to improve routes such as U. S. 6, 30 and 22.

In his statement, Barr said: "Highways 22, 30 and 6 cannot possibly be affected by the construction or nonconstruction of the shortway since they are free-access roads and are not affected by what happens to limited-access roads."

The U. S. Bureau of Roads is currently studying the possibility of including the shortway route in the new federal highway program.

Posten Home From Truman Library Sale

WAYNE R. POSTEN, local auctioneer has returned from Kansas City, Mo., where he attended the National Auctioneers' Assn. annual convention and participated in an auction of former President Harry Truman's book, "Memoirs of Harry S. Truman Library."

Posten, who is an officer of the Pennsylvania state auctioneers' association, covered nine states in the trip to and from Kansas City, including a pause at the Lexington, Ky. track where he took a handful of dirt from the famous racing strip.

Chief Speaker
Former President Truman and his brother attended the convention with the former President as the chief speaker. Six copies of Truman's book brought $1,285, all of which was devoted to the Truman Library fund. Truman was so delighted with the auctioneers' gesture he announced a plaque will be erected in the library honoring the auctioneers and bearing the names of those who participated in the auction.

Reports submitted at the convention indicated a heavy increase in membership throughout the nation. Other state auctioneers who attended included Tom Berry, West Newton; Sam Lyons, Soltsburg; Homer Sparks, Sharon; Kenneth Burrows, New Kensington; Quinton R. Chaffee, Towanda and Harry Dennis, Butler.

Surplus Food Distribution To Continue

DISTRIBUTION of surplus foods to persons other than the families of Ronson Corp. employees will get under way tomorrow, it was announced yesterday by the Monroe County commissioners.

The county board said about 2,500 applications for the surplus commodities had been received by yesterday afternoon. All but an estimated 500 involve the families of Ronson workers, who just recently ended a seven-week strike.

Completed
It was expected that distribution to the families of Ronson workers would be completed last night, a county official said.

Complete Rehabilitation Of Armory
Recognition For Co. G's Fine Job

News that the State Department of Property and Supplies is calling for bids for the complete rehabilitation of the National Guard Armory in East Stroudsburg comes as an welcome announcement, even though seemingly overdue.

Flood waters last August inflicted heavy damage on the Washington St. building, forcing Company G, 109th Infantry Regiment to seek temporary quarters in Wayne Gymnasium on the State Teachers College campus.

Without doubt, the order to completely rehabilitate the armory is a tribute to the fine job Company G—both officers and enlisted personnel—are doing. The unit, fortunate in finding a temporary home that fits its needs and with the added advantage of an adjacent drill field, has carried on magnificently both during the flood emergency and since.

Its stature in the community has stood the unit in good stead during its recruitment drive in recent months and today it is the largest company in the entire 28th Division. Company G's feats have not gone unrecognized, as evidenced by the plans for rehabilitating the armory.

May the good work persist and the company continue to prosper long after it returns to the remodeled armory

Nasser Learns It Doesn't Always Pay
To Play Both Ends Against The Middle

Playing both ends against the middle seldom pays off in the long run, as Egyptian President Nasser has found out to his sorrow.

He received his first shock when Secretary of State Dulles withdrew our offer of aid for the Aswan Dam project. Until that time, all he had to do was lean a little toward the Soviet and anything he wanted was his. Now he, and others like him, know that we can be pushed just so far.

And while he was getting over the effects of this unexpected rebuff, Russia slapped him on the other wrist in the person of Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov, who revealed that his country was not considering any offers to build the $1.3 billion Aswan Dam.

Apparently, the gun Nasser held pointed at this country wasn't even loaded.

The diplomatic setback may send Nasser scurrying completely into the Soviet camp, where his sympathies seem to be, but the overall effect may be good for him. He has placed himself on a pedestal and, in fact, assumed the mantle of leader of the entire Arab world.

With aid pouring in to him from the United States and with the Russian bloc selling him arms and currying his favor as well, he must have been quite self satisfied.

George Sokolsky Says...

Dewey May Be Asked To Run For Senator
To Avert Party Fight That Would Hurt Ike

As the election approaches, the Republicans in New York State find themselves in a more desperate situation than most of those who are willing to admit.

They can lose that state with its 45 electoral votes because of an internecine fight over the candidacy for the United States Senate.

Thus far, the most successfully projected aspirant is Jacob Javits, the Attorney General, whom most Republicans do not want for many reasons, some of which no one wants to say out loud yet. On the other hand, there is a deal between Javits and Oswald Heck, a powerful member of the State Legislature who aspires to be the candidate for Governor. Heck is hardly known in the New York City metropolitan area but is popular up-state; Javits has organized political power among the socialistic Liberal Party members but is disliked by up-state Republicans who wonder how he ever worked his way into the Republican Party. So Heck and Javits combined to boost each other—Javits for U. S. Senator in 1956; Heck for Governor in 1958.

The danger to the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket this year is that this plan is splitting the Republicans in this crucial state and that many will stay at home on Election Day rather than vote for Javits. If the Democratic candidate is Herbert Lehman, these Republicans will have no one to vote for. And this has nothing to do with anti-Semitism. It is just that most Republicans are conservatives and do not care to vote for Left Wingers.

So, they are pinning their hopes on the ability of the party management to convince Tom Dewey, the erstwhile candidate for the Presidency, to run for United States Senator. They hold that Dewey can win hands down. Thus far, Dewey has shown reluctance. He is said to be delighted with his private law practice and the comfort of earning some money after a long career in public office.

On the other hand, it is generally believed that John Foster Dulles is reaching a saturation point in the amount of intrigue he has to surmount in the State Department. With Harold Stassen, W. H. Jackson, C. D. Jackson (out of office), Dr. Milton Eisenhower, Paul Hoffman and now Sherman Adams, all putting their mixing spoons into the foreign affairs pot, with the Acheson left-overs sticking their legs out for Dulles and Herbert Hoover, Jr., to trip over, it is beginning to be a bit wearisome. Therefore, if Dulles should resign after Election Day, it is believed that the President would offer Dewey the Secretaryship of State.

Dewey would make a competent Secretary of State and would clean up the kitchen mess in which too many cooks have already spoiled too much. Harold Stassen is also said to aspire to this position or any other, but it is generally accepted that the President would prefer Dewey.

Therefore Thomas E. Dewey finds himself besieged by New York State Republicans to announce himself as an aspirant for the U. S. Senate candidacy; many national Republicans want him to hold himself in readiness to succeed Dulles; and his partners undoubtedly want him to stay with his present firm to which he has brought considerable business.

Dewey is a peculiar personality in that while he makes few warm friends, he is admired for his ability as an administrator and his capacity to grasp the innards of a problem. He was an extraordinarily competent Governor of New York. Twice he tried for the Republican Presidential nomination—really three times, if all the facts are clear. He was beaten for election by his own obstinacy. He, Sherman Adams and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., picked Eisenhower and boomed him so completely that Republican businessmen made pilgrimages to Paris where Eisenhower then was. They put Eisenhower over on the first ballot at the 1952 Republican Convention, although most of the professionals in the party favored Senator Robert A. Taft.

Taft followers have never forgiven Dewey for 1952. However, as a United States Senator, he will have opportunities to win them over for what political value they now have. As Secretary of State, he could only antagonize them. If the Republicans should succeed in organizing the Senate, Dewey's position would immediately become a significant one, for whereas he would be a junior in the Senate, he possesses marked seniority in his party.

Confusion on the floors of both conventions seems likely. After all which would you prefer, Estes Kefauver and Julie Andrews or Adlai Stevenson and Mary Martin? Would a ticket of Harriman and Gene Autry get the youth vote. Could any candidate be defeated who went to the polls resolutely tied up with Bing Crosby, Vic Damone, Sheena of the Jungle and Lassie? Favorite sons are not too easy on the eyes and it is possible a favorite daughter could lick 'em all. Many a candidate is terrible when he bursts into song, and a silver tongued orator with no railing among the best 10 TV shows is sunk. A platform that makes no mention of the amusement business is silent on dancing trends and scorns a pledge for or against Presley is worse than useless.

With the circus gone, it is good to feel that nothing can happen to baseball, football, stud poker or bridge...

Fairly Spoken By MARGARET LATROBE

Sunday Sermon Gives
Spouses Poke In Ribs

The minister faced his congregation, about to announce the sermon's topic. Sam and Mabel, sitting well down front, felt pleased with themselves that Sunday morn. First, for getting to church on time. Then, for getting to church at all. It was summer, it was hot, it was the morning after Saturday night—not the most promising combine.

Maise gave her husband a gentle nudge with her elbow which told him three things—she hoped the sermon would be short, she wished he would look attentive, she would not easily forgive his dozing off. Mabel always shoved her elbow in her husband's ribs to emphasize a desired course of behavior which circumstance prevented verbal amplification. How he detested those pokes!

"If you want to get a line on a man's character," said the padre, "ask him to name the 10 things that, during the past year, made him angriest." This technique, he added, was used by a newspaperman friend in interviews. Wow! thought Sam. Here is one sermon I don't have to sleep through. He had not actually planned to sleep—merely to figure who would make up his golf foursome that afternoon.

Wow! thought Mabel, poking her husband less gently than before. Here is a sermon Sam won't mind hearing me relish. And they both set about instantly cataloging the 10 things that had made them the maddest last year.

Sam put his boss in the top 10—at the top. This was fun. He felt better already. Next came Mabel's poke in the mid-rib whenever she lacked words or opportunity to call attention to some special happening. So he was talking too much—poke. So he was flirting with that cute red-headed widow—ouch.

So they ought to go home—poke. Or he was being critical of those pushy neighbors—poke. And in a bridge game where her elbow was far from the target, she would kick him. Smack! It was a nuisance to be kicked smartly in the middle of a good story. So Mabel didn't approve of his stories, so he had told this one before—so he got a poke, nudge or a rap on the shin as reminder. Drat Mabel.

As the preacher droned on, Sam smiled to himself. Busy signals on his telephone infuriated him. Golf balls landing in that blasted trap on Number Four. Lukewarm coffee... overdone steak... Finding himself out of shaving cream. Ah, this was a dandy sermon. Gave a man something to think about.

Mabel was enjoying it, too. Much as she loved Sam, he annoyed her in lots of ways. It made her furious when he took her to three-no-trumps after she responded "nothing" to his opening two. He snored, too, which she felt was unthoughtful and unnecessary. She had got awfully mad last November at the impudent grocery clerk. Losing two sheets at the laundry—well, where else can they get lost?—made her wild. Mabel's top 10 peevish soon overflowed their cup and were pressing 20.

"And so," concluded the minister, "you see it is anger at the big things— injustice, intolerance—things which affect the welfare of others, that mark men of real character. When anger involves only petty meanness and trivialities, that individual has little character, little scope, little hope."

Mabel looked aside at Sam. Then she poked him in the side. Sam returned her glance. As they rose for the hymn, he returned the poke. "Good sermon, eh?" he whispered.

Robert S. Allen Reports
Dag Sells Power Project
In Middle East, Russia

Washington, July 26 — A far-reaching peace plan is what was really behind those mysterious trips Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld made first to Moscow and then to the Middle East.

His momentous proposal revolves around the long-stalled and highly explosive Jordan River development project.

Under Hammarskjöld's plan, this great irrigation and power project, which the Arabs have blocked despite several years of strenuous effort by Special Ambassador Eric Johnston, would be made a United Nations undertaking, in which Russia would participate.

This new approach to this key problem has the tentative approval of the U. S. and Russia.

Secretary of State Dulles expressed willingness to go along with Hammarskjöld's plan if Jordan, Syria and Israel consent to it. The United Nations chief was told that before he began his direct negotiations.

Moscow indicated its concurrence during Hammarskjöld's discussions there. The Kremlin was wary but generally friendly and receptive.

The three Middle East countries directly involved — Syria, Jordan and Israel—did not say "no." They didn't completely accept Hammarskjöld's bold plan, but neither did they reject it. Last year, Syria and Jordan announced they would go to war if Israel resumed work on the Jordan project. But in last week's talks with Hammarskjöld, the door was left open for possible acceptance of his proposal.

That is of supreme importance. It means the way is clear for an eventual agreement between the Arabs and Israel on this crucial controversy.

This would entail direct Soviet participation in the economic development of the Middle East. Secretary Dulles is inclined to assent to that on the theory it will be "controlled" through the United Nations. He deems such "joint cooperation" far safer and sounder than "uncontrolled" Red penetration through arms barter and other provocative transactions with the Arabs.

Not all State Department officials go along with Dulles on this view.

A leading dissenter is Assistant Secretary of State George Allen, who is being shifted to Ambassador to Greece. The career diplomat holds that Russian economic penetration cannot be "controlled" by the UN; that once the Communists get a foothold in the Middle East, it will be extremely difficult to limit their operations in this strategic region. Allen advocates doing everything possible to exclude them wholly from it.

Note: Britain, France and Canada strongly favor Hammarskjöld's peace concept.

Anti-entertainment — Two long-time foes of public funds for entertainment made another strenuous effort to stop that, and while they didn't get anywhere, they did get in some caustic verbal licks.

Representative H. R. Gross (R. Iowa) raised the issue on a $9,000 proposal for entertainment by the Export-Import Bank. He agreed the amount was small, but vigorously argued the principle is highly important. "We have got to put the brakes on these people somewhere," thundered Gross. "First it was $800,000 for entertainment, liquor and all the rest that goes with it for the State Department. Then it was $50,000 for entertainment for representatives to NATO. They called that hospitality allowance. But whatever they call it, it's still spending taxpayers' money for entertaining. We have got to get down to earth on this business."

Representative Clare Hoffman (R., Mich.) enthusiastically agreed with his colleague.

"If the people of this Bank and those other fellows," he echoed Gross, "would eat up some of our surplus grain and dairy products, that would be one way to help the country. But no, they don't do that; they don't want that. They have to have high-class entertainment."

"Perhaps they have to have this entertainment allowance," suggested Gross, "to make some of those so-called soft loans to foreign countries that may or may not be repaid."

"You mean to coax those people to take our money?" added Hoffman.

"Yes," agreed Gross, "to spoonfeed them. The time is long passed when this sort of thing should stop."

Note: Representative John Rooney (D., N. Y.), House Appropriations Subcommittee chairman, has demanded an explanation from the Commerce Department of a $2,800 expenditure to send an official of a leading Eastern advertising firm to Japan as a "market research expert." All he did, according to Rooney, was to promote business for his own firm "at government expense."

Serving in one army is usually enough for any man. But, today's chief attraction is a gentleman who has served in both the German and U. S. Armies. The soldier in mention is Gue n t h e r Bruntro, who recently spent a portion of a furlough with his wife at Sun Hill Cabins, Scotrun.

Guenther originally entered the German army at age 16. He later made his way to the United States with his wife, only to be drafted into the U. S. military, which automatically made him a citizen.

Bruntro was only six days below the top draft limit when he was ordered to don Uncle Sam's uniform.

Angry? Upset? Unhappy? No. Guenther reports that serving under the Stars and Stripes was the greatest experience in his life.

He is now stationed at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D.C., and had close association with President Dwight D. Eisenhower during the latter's recent illness.

He also came in contact with Conrad Audenauer, the top political figure in all Germany, when the latter visited Eisenhower in the Hospital.

Guenther, a resident of the United States for two and one-half years, now speaks English fluently, although he had a broken lingo during his first visit to Sun Hill Cabins, a resort operated by Mr. and Mrs. Francis Mooney and daughter Frances.

Bruntro was a prisoner of the French during World War II, while a brother was a prisoner of the Americans. Guenther reports that his brother returned home from prison one Christmas Eve, but when he found there was no food in the house he immediately returned to the American zone.

An uncle, who resides in Philadelphia, sponsored Guenther's application to come to the United States.

The Scotrun visitor expects to be discharged from the Army in three and one-half months. He further plans to live in Philadelphia where he will become a dental technician, a position he now holds in the Army.

One of the humorous stories Bruntro tells about himself is the fact that he had trouble understanding the various commands during basic training, due to the language barrier. But, he learned early to move and stop with the remainder of the basics, and thus defeating the big problem.

Mrs. Mooney, operator of Sun Hill Cabins, is a relative of Grace Kelly, the world famous wife of Prince Rainier, and a former Hollywood star of great fame.

Two cousins of the Princess Mr. and Mrs. Walter Costello, visited Sun Hill Cabins last week.

The Costellos, like the Princess, are natives of the East Falls section of Philadelphia, as is Mrs. Mooney.

The Poconos get many varied visitors and they each have a story to tell.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

Now that Frankie Sinatra has been signed as a feature of the Democratic Convention, and the Republicans have secured Ethel Merman, Howard Keel, Brian Sullivan of the Metropolitan and Lucille Norman, this corner looks for the naming of a President to take on un-paralleled aspects of show business. Neither side has yet spoken for Elvis (The Pelvis) Presley. But his early, and since both parties want to give the conventions a new twist, Elvis would seem to be eligible. The public is entertainment mad these days. It could be that Jack North folded the circus last week because he knew the political conventions would offer too much competition.

This business of giving party conventions the full show-biz treatment can bring some curious results. Suppose the Democrats get Grace Kelly for a brief platform appearance? Will the Republicans counter with Lollobrigida? Will news that the Stevens backers will use Johnny Ray mean an immediate announcement that President Eisenhower will make a pitch with Julius La Rosa? Is Stuart Symington as good as nominated if he can get "Perry Como"? Can late July and August find the country trying to exist on half Roberta Sherwood and half Patti Page? Could it even become possible for a ticket if John W. Rock and Luther Roll stamped either convention? Isn't there a chance that a voter may vote Republican because he didn't like the Democratic musical set-up, and that a GOP man may cast his ballot for a Democrat because the Republican convention lacked Broadway talent?

Confusion on the floors of both conventions seems likely. After all which would you prefer, Estes Kefauver and Julie Andrews or Adlai Stevenson and Mary Martin? Would a ticket of Harriman and Gene Autry get the youth vote. Could any candidate be defeated who went to the polls resolutely tied up with Bing Crosby, Vic Damone, Sheena of the Jungle and Lassie? Thruway To Pass Over Dreher Ave.

THE DAILY Record today presents the third in a series of detailed maps illustrating the proposed construction plans for the eight interchanges that will connect the Stroudsburg with the Thruway route recommended by consulting engineers.

The map, prepared by Gannett, Fleming, Corddry and Carpenter Inc., shows how the Thruway would pass over Dreher Ave., Stroudsburg, also known as Route 612 and Legislative Route 165.

The Thruway is the heavy dark line cutting across the center of this map.

Connection

Ramp A carrying north-bound traffic on Pa. 612 to the Thruway east-bound, descends on a two percent grade to a connection with the east-bound lanes of the Thruway.

A short spur accommodates south-bound traffic on Pa. 612 destined for the east on the Thruway by means of a left turn. An access road, necessitating a channel change, is required for the commercial facilities located between McMichael Creek and the Thruway. Ramp B carries west-bound traffic off the new facility down a four percent grade along the edge of the cemetery to a stop connection with Pa. 612.

These two connections provide for 800 of the 1,200 vehicle anticipated movements daily at this location. The 400 movements for which no provisions have been made can easily get to the interchange about 2,000 feet west, the engineers observed.

Blind Group Meets In Court House

CARBON-Monroe Branch, Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, held its quarterly meeting in the Court House here last night.

During March, April and May, the staff made 21 social service calls, including 15 in Monroe County, according to F. E. Vandenberg, executive director. A woman resident of the county was sent to Wills Eye Hospital for treatment of glaucoma and the association paid her hospital bill of $85, he reported.

Help

Other Monroe County residents who received financial help included two men and one boy, eye treatment; one man, medical treatment; one man and one girl, rehabilitation.

Three women and two men were employed in the branch shop at Jim Thorpe. Seventeen chairs were caned and 294 yards of carpet woven. Sales totaled $1,117.23, less a $270.90 commission paid to the sighted salesman. Expenditures for glasses were $90, Vandenberg said.

Others attending the meeting were Emerson Rahn, Miss Elizabeth Martin and M. Eugene Lefler, all of Monroe County; Miss Bessie Moore, president, and Miss Stevenson, secretary.

Signal Corps Officer Tells Kiwanis Club Of Army's Many Duties In Time Of Peace

LT. COL. Leon J. Fishkin, chief technical liaison officer for the chief signal officer in Washington, D. C., was the guest speaker at yesterday's Kiwanis Club meeting held at Glen Brook Country Club.

Fishkin spoke on the "Army's Role in World Peace." The Army officer pointed out that the U. S. Army is big business. "The Army," he said, consists of a million soldiers and a half million civilian employees. It has forces in 73 countries.

"Since dropping the first atom bomb on August 6, 1945, the purpose of the Armed Forces has been to defend our shores by impressing the fact that aggression will be contested and that the aggressor will lose," the guest speaker continued.

"The need of the Army today is to be flexible and versatile, so as to be able to move quickly and effectively against the aggressor anywhere," Fishkin added.

"The Army task today is to be a deterrent force. It creates native strength and impresses our allies with the fact that we will work with them. The Army's task at home is to train recruits and support 22 arsenals. It's overall job is to maintain overwhelming strength, the colonel added.

"The individual soldier is the independent element to victory. Teamwork between civilians and soldiers as displayed during World War II is needed for the sake of the nation," the guest speaker concluded.

Fishkin was introduced by Clyde Burke, Tollyhanna Signal Depot public relations director.

Home Fund Hits $6,000

THE FUND being raised by the Women's Association of Allied Beverage Industries for purchase of a home for the needy aged reached $6,000 yesterday, it was reported by the secretary, Mrs. Rose Smith.

She said additional cash contributions were received from Carl B. Kintner, Ernest Ridgeway, Chester A. Coleman, Paul Whelan, Jeannette Harris, Pocono Bottling Works and Frank McNamara.

Tocks Island Area Dam Studies To Resume

A NEW York firm will soon resume its studies for a proposed dam site along the Delaware River about 10 miles north of Stroudsburg.

The survey was halted when an island owner, Gerard Cole McKown, Ardmore, successfully blocked the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers in their efforts to conduct the studies.

However, a spokesman for the corps Philadelphia District office has disclosed that it has now received authorization from McKown for survey crews to enter Poxono Island, which he owns. Tocks and Poxono are two of four islands in a five-mile stretch of river near the Monroe-Pike county line.

With this authorization, the engineers can now proceed with their studies. The surveys were authorized several months ago, in order to determine the feasibility of erecting a multi-purpose dam near Tocks Island.

The engineers have notified the Gahagen Construction Co. of New

Randolph Makes Impression In Production Of Othello

George Graff, author of this article is also the author of "The Irish Eye" and is a veteran observer of stage and screen productions from coast to coast.

By George Graff
WHEN IT WAS announced that Leonard Randolph would play "Iago" at the Bushkill Playhouse I knew where I would be Tuesday night, July 24.

I was at the Polo Grounds the day Frankie Frisch started his career with the Giants. I saw Leo Durocher play his first big league game at Yankee Stadium and I was on the Ziegfeld Roof the night Eddie Cantor opened in "The Frolics". His first big time engagement.

Maybe this would be another "First" for me to remember.

I was more than half-serious as I thought this. None of us who know Leonard Randolph were surprised that he would accept this further outlet for his enthusiasm for the theater. Every review he has written of plays that have come to the Poconos has sparkled with his keen appreciation of the art of actor, director, producer, set designer and playwright.

Those of us who have read his poems know how unique is his understanding of the value, color and music of words.

What more natural, then, than that he would stand back of the footlights and interpret the lines of the greatest artist in the use of words the world has even known.

Truly the part he chose in which to make his acting debut here, "Iago" in "Othello", did startle me. I could picture him as Romeo in "Romeo and Juliet", as Petruchio in "The Taming of the Shrew" or as any of the many other clean shaven young lovers Shakespeare bequeathed the theater. (Even for a while this past winter as Capt. Ahab in Moby Dick). But that low, convincing, venomous, double-crossing Iago!—the vilest creature in all history, fact and fiction!!!

Keeping my promise to myself I was in the theater opening night. The curtain went up and there he was—our hero—the villain. From then until at the very last they took him to his well earned offstage execution my eyes were glued on this new "Iago", my ears tuned to every inflection of his voice.

Let me say right here that there can be no question but that there was a genius in this past Tuesday night. His name was William Shakespeare and that meant that all of us had a very enjoyable time. To quote another of the same author's characters "The Play's The Thing" and the play was great and surprisingly well staged and directed. Ray Nichols as Othello, Kay Costley as Desdemona and those in the supporting cast gave life-size dimensions to the characters they portrayed.

How was Iago? I have always pictured Iago as short, fat, oily and forbidding in appearance. Seeing him played by a tall, spare, good-looking young man I had to make some mental adjustments. But as Iago's sly machinations pyramided higher and higher the villain Shakespeare had drawn came to life and I hated him as I haven't hated anyone since as a boy I saw Simon Legree in "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Is, then, John Barrymore's position as the greatest delineator of Shakespeare in jeopardy? Does Sir Lawrence Olivier need to worry?

I don't think so. But I didn't suspect that Frisch and Durocher were taking the first steps to baseball's Hall of Fame or that Cantor was on his way to the heights the first time I saw them.

Certainly Leonard Randolph has a good voice and he knows how to use it. His love for words and his knowledge of their meaning come through in every line he delivers, especially so in the soli-loquies. At such times as others in the cast take over the center of the stage he furthers the plot and gets across his relation to the scene being played by well thought out postures and restrained gestures.

He is good and I recommend that you go and see him. You'll have a fine time. Shakespeare is worth the price of admission anytime and who knows, maybe in the years ahead we will remember the night in the Poconos we saw Leonard Randolph as Iago in Othello and recall it as a memorable "First".

Luncheon Prepared By Shawnee Club

Shawnee-on-Delaware — The Shawnee 4-H Club met yesterday at the home of Mrs. Robert Beards with seven members present. The girls, under the supervision of Mrs. Beards, prepared lunch. The menu consisted of tomato juice, tuna fish salad sandwiches, potato chips, pickles, frozen fruit salad, lemon pie, coffee and iced tea.

Mrs. Kenneth Stettler and Miss Margaret MacLaren were luncheon guests.

In the afternoon, the group sewed on their garments. Next week the meeting will be devoted entirely to sewing. It will be held Wednesday from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Beards home.

Bushkill PTA Discuss New Lunch Set-Up

Bushkill — The Bushkill Parent Teachers Association met during the past week at which time they voted for a cook-buyer for the lunch program for 1956-57 year. Mrs. Eloise Dickson, secretary, read the applications from Mrs. Amy Seese, Mrs. Daisy VanWhy, Mrs. Edith Brauer and Mrs. Catherine Keiper. Mrs. Keiper was elected by vote to serve for the 1956-57 program.

Mrs. Ralph G. Turn, Jr. will work with the cook-buyer and with Mrs. Horton Place of Middle Smithfield School to plan a schedule of workers for the lunch program. Mrs. Marjorie Moore and Mrs. Keiper will report at the next meeting regarding the necessary equipment needed for the lunchroom.

Mrs. William Laubner reported on the progress of the supper to be held on Saturday, July 28 at the firehouse. Mrs. Laubner stated that workers will meet at 7:30 p.m. to complete arrangements for the supper. Tickets have been mailed to members of the Bushkill P. T. A. and also to parents of the children who will attend the Bushkill school this fall.

Mrs. Harold Riedmiller sent a report on the bake sale held in June with a total proceeds of $34.25.

The white elephant gift was presented by Mrs. William Laubner and awarded to Mrs. Irvin Smith.

The membership discussed very briefly the proposal of a kindergarten which would be located in Middle Smithfield township and to which children of both Lehman and Middle Smithfield would be eligible to attend. On the basis of the financial situations at present and the little information available, the membership voted to postpone the discussion of a kindergarten until a later date.

The group adjourned to the firehouse where refreshments were served. This was necessary due to the work that is being done in the lunchroom and other schoolrooms in preparation for the 1956-57 term. Mrs. John Myers and Mrs. Nelson Whitaker were hostesses. The next meeting will be on Thursday, August 9 at the school at 8:30 p.m.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

A little heaven leaventh the whole lump, and with Randy in "Othello" this week, the rest of the editorial force is getting cultured as all get-out, quoting Shakespeare at each other like mad. "My reputation, oh my reputation!"

No fooling, we are getting a big kick out of it vicariously, and those of us who saw the first performance were very proud of him, although we're not supposed to say so. Anyway, I for one am grateful to George Graff for saying it for us.

Actually, there are a lot of cultural influences at work on us right now — including Arla Joro from Finland. It was amazing how easily she fitted in at the coffee given for her by the Woman's Club yesterday morning. Surely a stranger couldn't have told which was the visitor from abroad either by sight or by sound.

When I think how tongue-tied I'd be in Finland, I marvel at how she could chatter away with everyone. When one of the girls was bemoaning the fact that our children don't learn other languages as a matter of course as they do in Europe, she said, "But why should they. If you speak English you can be understood anywhere in the world", which is sort of comforting.

Despite her command of English, one of her purposes in coming was to learn to speak it better, so that her first host, Sally Fansler, is taking quite a ride from her friends who accuse her of teaching Arla to speak English with a southern accent.

Another amazing thing about visitors from afar is how many "kinfolk" they find. Well, really not related but local people who came from Finland, or Sweden or Norway, or wherever it may be, or whose parents came from there. We're a lot more cosmopolitan than we think. And bits of German and French and Swedish kept popping out of local mouths at the coffee.

And the sounds coming from the Metzger home on Club Court last night weren't from the radio but from the Lafayette College quartette fresh from singing at the Waring Workshop.

Music, drama, travel and languages, high-falutin' fare for summer but sort of stimulating.

Clam Bake At McBride's Marks Three Birthdays

A clam bake was held at the cabin of Mr. and Mrs. Paul McBride, Brewster Road, Pike County on Friday to celebrate three birthdays: those of Mrs. Mabel Smith, June 19; Mrs. Arthur Troegner, July 20, and Paul McBride, July 23.

Mrs. Smith had her four daughters present for the occasion: Mrs. Arthur Troegner, who was visiting here from Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. Paul McBride, Mrs. John Foelker and Mrs. Ray Walters.

Those present were Mrs. Mabel Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John Foelker and daughter, Beverly Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Troegner, Mr. and Mrs. Paul McBride, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henning and children, Jimmy, Bud and Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Walters and children, Ray and Bruce.

Keiller Candy and Spice Islands Seasonings. Mention them together, and for a moment you are struck by the contrast. What, you wonder, could they possibly have in common? What meeting ground would exist between candies that look like jewels, gleaming behind a protective wrapping of cellophane, and such things as cinnamon, powdered mushrooms, and shredded onion, freshly bright and deliciously scented in gleaming glass jars?

There are several meeting grounds actually, in addition to the fact that both are foods of a very special kind. One common denominator is the enviable reputation both companies have earned from alert homemakers. The minute one says "Keiller," and calls to mind that this company is represented in America by Crosse & Blackwell . . . the minute one says "Spice Islands" . . . the average thrifty housewife knows that you are talking of quality. You are saying in a few brief words, "Here is merchandise that's particularly tasty because it's particularly fine quality, and particularly fresh." Moreover she knows that it is hygienically pure . . . that she need have no hesitancy in serving it to her children, her husband, and her guests.

Another common meeting ground for Keiller candy and Spice Islands Seasonings, is the fact that both are imported. The candy comes from Scotland, and just thinking of it calls to mind the pleasant whine of bagpipes, the refreshing—Scottish dialects, and the gay colors of clan tartans, while to look at the Spice Islands assortment calls to mind almost every corner of the globe.

That is why it seems particularly suitable to me that Mrs. Miller, of our candy department, has scheduled Keiller and Spice Islands demonstrations only a few days apart. Beginning today, visitors to our store will be offered samples of Keiller candy. Then, next Tuesday, Helen Samuels will be here once again representing Spice Islands and serving special sauces and mixtures in our center aisle. It sounds like fun . . . and a wonderful way for our regular customers and city guests to become acquainted with foods they may never before have tasted.

Keiller Candy has, for the past several years, been one of the best sellers in our candy department. Its quality has a great deal to do with this; also, its extensive variety. Keiller candy is more than solidified sweetened water, which is just about all one can say for many hard candies. The fresh fruits are juicy and delectable; the mints come in a tangy trio offering a choice of subtle to strong flavor; and the filled candies have a heart as chewy and delightful as any connoisseur of fine tastes could desire. These candies are popular favorites at 79c a pound, but for the three-day demonstration we are offering them at 69c, a saving of one shiny dime.

Elsie also offers a ten cent saving on each jar of Keiller jams. Here again quality is evident in the texture, the flavor, and the packaging. There isn't any meal of the day that can't be improved upon by serving the right marmalade or jelly. It's as right at dinner as it is at breakfast . . . it can be an elaborate addition to dessert, or simply enhance the splendor of the main course. Try it, and see! Moreover, jam is a wonderful quick energy food.

As for Spice Islands . . . there are herbs, salts, and mixes galore in this line to make your cookery different somehow from the cookery of your neighbors. Mrs. Samuels will gladly suggest dozens of quick, easy ways to perk up meal-time at your home.

The thought suddenly comes to me, that any bride using these seasonings and jams, and having Keiller candy for after dinner treating, need never worry about entertaining. She'll be a hit at the start — a hostess who knows the meaning of good taste from every angle.

'Eagle Truth Library' To Be Sent To Foreign Countries

A LIBRARY of ninety-nine paperback books, called "The Eagle Truth Library" is being sent abroad to help fight communist propaganda. It was announced here by the Stroudsburg Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles yesterday. The books, selected by the United States Information Agency, and distributed by the relief agency CARE, will be placed in a school, library or institution in either of several critical areas of Europe, Asia or the Middle East, according to Leo Voss, secretary of the local Eagles Club.

"With the free world being flooded with slanted propaganda critical of the United States and its ways and habits, a great need has arisen for the truth about America," Voss said. "The Eagle Truth Library, a really magnificent selection of books by America's greatest — and free — writers, supplies an essential need overseas. This CARE package of books is food for thought — food for hungry minds eager to know us and our democracy. The Eagles are proud to be able to send these numerous Eagle Truth Libraries abroad. The need for this truth-telling is a continuing cold-war need. The Eagles Club welcomes help from anyone who wishes to contribute any amount to the Truth Fund."

Eagles have undertaken the campaign to help counteract the floods of subsidized literature from behind the Iron Curtain into free world countries. The Eagle Truth Fund headquarters is at 912 Main St., Stroudsburg. Uranium is found in more than 135 minerals.

U. S. Customs now permits American tourists to mail home from abroad gifts valued at not more than $10 to as many persons as they wish free of duty.

TWO CHAMPIONS OF THE ROAD...

both Chevrolets!

To the eye, the sleek torpedo shape of the new Corvette and the long, massive lines of the new Chevrolet are far different. But these two champions have one superb quality in common—both were born to cling to the road as though they were part of it!

Matter of fact, Chevrolet's astonishing roadability—its precision ball-bearing steering, wide spaced rear springing and beautifully balanced weight distribution—are the major reasons why Chevrolet is America's short track stock car racing champion. It can and does out-run and out-handle cars with 100 more horsepower. When you wed this rock-solid stability to superb engines such as the 225-h.p. V8 that flashed the Corvette to a new American sports car record—then you get a real championship combination. Stop by for a sample.

Sunbeam Energy First!

Food authorities say good enriched bread—like Sunbeam—with its proteins, minerals and vitamins is a lasting, full energy food.

And, to make it even better for you every slice contains extra milk...extra calcium and extra Vitamin D.

Many foods are fast-acting and also "empty-energy" foods. They pick you up—then let you down. And "empty-energy" foods have little or none of the vital elements so necessary for glowing health and sparkling vitality.

Play safe. Make Sunbeam Energy First your golden rule. Serve at least two delicious slices of enriched Sunbeam with 3 Great Food Extras added, to every one, at every meal. Fresh today at your grocer's.

Always deliciously fresh!

CIRCUS — Crowds continue to flock to the stranded portion of the King Brothers Circus at Stokes Mill to see the animals in camp. Circus officials have announced that the show may rebuild and hold its first performance here in approximately three weeks. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Local People At Waring's Workshop

DELAWARE WATER GAP — The Alumnae Workshop will present "Two Score and Ten", a varied musical program honoring the 40th anniversary of Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians and the 10th anniversary of the Fred Waring music workshop.

The program is scheduled for 8 p.m. today, and because of limited facilities is open to those with invitations only.

Through the years, the workshop has grown from a small number of educators interested in learning about Waring's choral techniques to a large number of students, directors and churchmen from all parts of the U. S. and Canada.

Local Residents

Among local residents to participate in the program have been Mary Frances Frankenhoff, of Stroudsburg, and Janet Snyder, of East Stroudsburg, both of whom were enrolled in last year's program; and Anna Kress, of Pen Argyl and director of the Junior High group there, who participated in last week's demonstrations of choral methods of teaching for elementary education.
